

NORTH CAROLINA STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS OF ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS

NEWSLETTER

AUGUST 2014, EDITION #66

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN

Since my early days in the electrical trade, there have been many people who have made a great influence on my life: men like Richard (Dick) Boyd, Curtis Kennedy, and Robbie Brooks - all leaders of the North Carolina State Board of Examiners of Electrical Contractors. Imagine the delight when, after retiring with forty-seven (47) years in the electrical field, I was appointed by Governor Purdue to serve as a Public Member on "The Board".

Now an even greater honor has been bestowed upon me: to be chosen by my fellow board members to serve as the Chairperson of the Board. The task before us all - You, the Electrical Contractor and the Examining Board - is certainly perfectly stated in the Board's Mission Statement - "To protect the life, health and property of the public...".

As the economy improves and electrical contracting improves there seems to be better times ahead. However, there are also challenges ahead. The retirement of Robbie Brooks leaves a great opportunity for Tim Norman, not to fill Robbie's shoes but to set his own path. I am confident that this Board, Tim and staff will strive to continue the successes and set new paths for the Board, Electrical Contractors and the citizens of North Carolina.

The Board is eagerly anticipating the appointment of another Public member to replace Donna Baxter whose term expired in June 2014. Thanks to Donna for her valuable service to the Board.

Many other issues face your Board, some of which are:

- Statewide Electrical Technicians Classification.

This is an attempt to provide for examining and classifying an electrical technician that can be used by a qualified electrical contractor to provide on-site supervision for jobs where a contractor needs a qualified person on-site when the electrical contractor cannot provide the required supervision.

- Electrical Code adoption.

Maintain close contact with the code adoption process. The examinations and continuing education content depends on what, which and when the State electrical Code is in effect.

- Program Evaluation

This program was mandated by the Legislature to study consolidation or centralizing all boards like ours. The PED (Program Evaluation Division) is now at work. Our Board attorney, Nick Fountain, and our Executive Director, Tim Norman, will certainly be involved in the process keeping us aware of all actions. After all, who knows the electrical business better than the electrical people?

- All other on-going activities.

Discipline, finance, examinations, and continuing education are still important issues that the Board will address in the coming year.

Quite a bit on the plate, but I am confident that with your help and the help of the Board members and Staff, this year will be a very good year! I look forward to the working with you.

NEW BOARD MEMBER APPOINTED

Governor Pat McCrory has appointed Gerald Harvell as a public member to the State Board of Examiners of Electrical Contractors. Mr. Harvell replaces Mrs. Donna Baxter whose term expired June 30, 2014. Mr. Harvell's term will expire on June 30, 2021.

Gerald Harvell is a retired Charlotte/Mecklenburg Chief Electrical Inspector. He has over 44 years' experience in the electrical field. He is a veteran of the US Army and enjoys computer repair, old cars, fishing and helping others. Gerald grew up in Concord and has lived there all of his life. He and his wife, Carol, have 4 children and 5 wonderful grandchildren.

TERM EXPIRES FOR BOARD MEMBER

The term of Donna Baxter as a member of the State Board of Examiners of Electrical Contractors has recently expired.

Ms. Baxter served on the Board from 2007-2014. She was Board Chairperson 2010-2012.

The Board greatly appreciates the outstanding contributions made by Ms. Baxter to the electrical industry and the citizens of North Carolina.

ROBBIE BROOKS PRESENTED AWARD

Robbie Brooks, former Executive Director of the NC State Board of Examiners of Electrical Contractors, retired July 1, 2014 after over 34 years of service.

At a reception held in his honor, Mr. Brooks (pictured with his wife, Kim) was presented with the Order of the Long Leaf Pine.

The Order of the Long Leaf Pine is presented to individuals who have a proven record of extraordinary service to the state. Contributions to their communities, extra effort in their careers, and many years of service to their organizations are some of the guidelines by which recipients are selected for this award.

LEGISLATION AFFECTING ELECTRICAL LICENSING BOARD

Section 10 (a) of the 2013-2014 session law directed the General Assembly's Program Evaluation Division to conduct an evaluation of the structure, organization, and operation of the various independent occupational licensure boards as defined in G.S. 93B-1. The law requires the division to include within the evaluation:

- Consideration of the feasibility of establishing a single State Agency to oversee the administration of all or some of the occupational licensing boards.
- Whether greater efficiency and cost effectiveness can be realized by combining the administrative functions of the boards while allowing the boards to continue performing the regulatory functions, and
- Whether the total number of boards should be reduced by combining and /or eliminating some boards.

Attorneys Comment

A committee and staff at the General Assembly has embarked on a study whether all licensing boards, including the Electrical Board, should be abolished, combined with other boards, or placed inside State Government. As attorney to the Board, I view this as a major threat to self-regulation of the industry and, in fact, of all occupations and professions.

Most of you know that, since 1937, this Board has collected a limited amount of money from you and used a cross-section of industry folks to protect the public and regulate the industry. In my view the Board has done a good job for 75 years with a limited amount of money. Let me make a few succinct comments:

Sending your money to the Department of Commerce or some other large bureaucracy will not give you more bang for the buck. In fact, you will pay the same amount or more, a chunk will be raked off the top, and there will be less money, net, to get rid of bad apples or stop unlicensed rip-off artists.

Forcing the Board to use the State computer system would be a disaster just like Medicaid—the Board has a pretty good computer system already.

Most industry people say that the umbrella agency in Virginia and other states is not nearly as responsive as your Board has been to you.

Forcing your license renewal, or your complaint, or your license application to go through a large bureaucracy downtown before it can be handled by the Board will add cost and delay.

This Board is pretty efficient and frugal---It's my experience that nearly every Board I have observed is more efficient and frugal than the rest of State government.

The ability of this Board to raise its own money when it must, and hire and fire when necessary, makes the Board far more effective and efficient than having this Board and your fees absorbed in the State budget---besides, the entire budget of this board wouldn't run state government until lunchtime.

Send me an email if you're willing to help us tell the Legislature: "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." Nick Fountain <JNF@youngmoorelaw.com>

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS
PROPOSED ELECTRICAL TECHNICIAN CLASSIFICATION

Since October 2013, the public and the industry have been aware that the Board is considering the creation of an optional technician classification to provide opportunities for licensees of the Board not now available. This topic will be on the agenda for the Board business meeting September 17-18, 2014. The following are a series of questions and answers related to the discussion.

Q. What is the supervision requirement now and what would this technician classification offer?

A. Board Rule 21NCAC 18B.0907(c) says "...supervision means active onsite review of the work by a qualified individual while the work is in progress." This has been the standard for many years. For some time, there has been concern that there are firms in North Carolina who do not have a qualified individual check work on every job every day. Some licensees worry they are being hypocritical to say they supervise every job. The challenge of providing supervision consistent with legal requirements is different where the contractor has no employees to supervise, only has a few big jobs, or does residential work with many houses or smaller projects being wired simultaneously. The same rule applies to all, however.

Some licensees have addressed this requirement by hiring multiple qualified individuals. Others would like the choice to use Board-qualified technicians instead.

Q. What would a technician be able to do?

A. The function of the technician is to supervise the work on a job site at times when the qualifier for the licensee cannot be present. The technician is not a contractor and has no responsibility other than to supervise work onsite on behalf of the licensee who employs him.

Q. What is the difference between a qualified individual and a technician?

A. The qualified individual has taken the business portion of the exam, the code portions, the laws and rules portions and has a much wider range of training and experience. A qualified individual can bid, permit, and perform contracts. In contrast, the only role of the technician is to help with the supervision obligation of the licensee, and the test is limited to Code.

Q. What would happen to my employees who already have a journeyman card from some municipality or other jurisdiction in North Carolina?

A. The Board has met with most all the towns and expects to be able to grandfather industry people who hold a journeyman card from a municipality or other jurisdiction in North Carolina once the Board has a chance to see that the test taken is roughly equivalent to the Board Technician test. In reality, at the present time the local government journeyman programs vary as to renewal cycle, continuing education or cost or quality of test.

Licensees who choose to encourage their journeymen to grandfather will be able to supervise work with the Technician (former journeymen) all across the State rather than hitting roadblocks when working in one town or another.

Q. What is the cost of the technician?

A. The Technician will cost nothing unless the licensee firm decides to use this approach. At the present time the renewal of a limited license costs $75.00. The initial application for a technician would be $50.00 plus the exam fee of $90.00. The license renewal is also $50.00. Out of the $90.00 examination fee, $57.00 goes to the provider of the multiple test sites where Board exams are administered. If the licensee firm chooses to engage multiple qualified individuals instead, the licensee pays $75.00. At the present time there is no charge for a qualified individual, but only for a license. On the other hand, hiring another Qualified Individual may carry a higher salary than a Technician.

Q. When would the technician rule become effective?

A. At the present time the Board has not decided whether to proceed with this option. If the Board decides to go ahead with it, there will need to be many months of opportunity for the grandfathering provision, but the earliest time the licensee could take advantage of this choice is likely to be early 2015.

Q. What would be the impact if the Board decides not to make any change?

A. If the Board decides to abandon the technician idea, the obligation for supervision will fall entirely on the one or more qualified individuals employed by a licensee. These individuals together are responsible to comply with the long-time requirement of personal review of the work carried out under the license.

Q. What kind of notice has the Board given the industry on this topic?

A. The Board posted notice of this possible change on the Board's website simultaneous with an email blast on October 1, 2013. The Board then had a public hearing on December 5, 2013 with people testifying either in favor of the concept or in opposition to the concept. After the public hearing, the Board studied all the comments, verbal and written, received from any source and evaluated each idea or comment. The Board then modified the October 2013 proposal to modify the cost, the description of the certification, the grandfathering details and other components. These changes were posted again on the Board website and provided to known industry groups. Thus, by the time the Board considers the matter in September 2014, all Qualified Individuals will have had approximately one year to comment and evaluate whether this opportunity might be useful for their firm.

Q. Will the Board make money from the technician program and does the Board need the money?

A. Best estimates are that 200-300 persons might take advantage of this technician concept if it is approved. Once the exam provider is paid (which doesn't apply to those who fit in the grandfather clause), there is no "profit" in the application examination process. Likewise, the renewal fee for the technician certification is roughly equivalent to what it will cost the Board to process; thus a fair answer to the question "Will the Board make money?" is "not really".

This Board was created pursuant to the provisions of Article 4, Chapter 87, of the General Statutes of North Carolina and has the authority to discipline conduct and sanction licensees pursuant to N.C.G.S. 87-47. Under N.C.G.S. 87-47(a1)(7) the following activities are prohibited: "Engaging in malpractice, unethical conduct, fraud, deceit, gross negligence, gross incompetence, or gross misconduct in the practice of electrical contracting."

1. Under the relevant part of N.C.G.S. 87-43, "In each separate place of business operated by an electrical contractor at least one listed qualified individual shall be regularly on active duty and shall have the specific duty and authority to supervise and direct all electrical wiring or electrical installation work done or made by such separate place of business."

Therefore, no electrical contracting work can be done under a license during the hours its listed qualified individual has committed himself to duty as an employee in other employment.

3. The provisions of the North Carolina State Building Code, including the North Carolina Electric Code, establish a minimum standard of competence applicable to Respondent.

4. Respondent has operated branch offices without having at least one listed qualified individual regularly on active duty

Based upon the foregoing Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, and with the consent of the parties, the Board enters the following order:

1. That the license of Respondent firm be placed on probation for a period of two (2) years, effective upon the entry of this Order as a final action by the Board.

2. During the period of probation, Respondent firm shall comply with the following conditions of probation:

(a) have written contracts or proposals signed by the licensee and utility for any installations of load management devices or other electrical equipment or devices in accordance with Paragraph 10 of the Findings of Fact;

(b) Maintain a written record of the location of future installations of load management devices or other electrical equipment or devices;

(e) During the period that Respondent GoodCents is under contract with a utility to install, examine, and/or repair load management devices in North Carolina, Respondent GoodCents shall consult and coordinate with such utility to ensure examinations of each residential load management device previously installed by Respondent GoodCents in the State of North Carolina that Respondent GoodCents has reason to believe contains 16 AWG power wiring.

Respondent GoodCents shall further ensure that any needed corrections to such devices are made contemporaneous with such examinations in order to make the wiring compliant with the current North Carolina Electric Code. Such examinations and corrections shall occur within three (3) years from the entry of this Order and under the supervision of a licensed electrical contractor.

(f) maintain records detailing and documenting its compliance with the provisions of this probation order which records shall be available for inspection at any time during normal business hours upon request of the staff of the Board; and

(g) Commit no violation of Article 4, Chapter 87 of the General Statutes or the Rules promulgated by the Board.

1. In the event of violation of terms of the probation, the Board may impose such sanctions as indicated by N.C.G.S. 87-47 and the evidence.

2. The parties acknowledge that, by signing the Order on behalf of Respondent Firm as a listed qualified individual, Michael Cress is subject to the terms and conditions imposed by this Order as a listed qualified individual; provided, however, that this Order contains no disciplinary sanction against Michael Cress as no proceedings were initiated against Michael Cress individually.
